

WE NOMINATE

Archibald Thomas MacAllister Jr., a two-decade Princetonian and a driving force in bringing this country face-to-face with the plight of modern language study at a time of great national need for language proficiency. In the period of the so-called "new diplomacy," when heads of state in East and West are suddenly exchanging pleasantries and are urging one another to swap weekend visits, this 54-year old Princetonian is concluding a vitally important tour of duty as Acting Director of the Foreign Language Program of the far-reaching Modern Language Association of America.

Since this past February, on part-time leave from his duties as Professor of Italian and Director of Language Instruction in Princeton University's Department of Romance Languages and Literatures, MacAllister has been concerned on a nation-wide scale with such problems as establishing standards of teacher competence, improving teaching methods and texts, and introducing foreign languages in elementary schools. To him the U. S. Office of Education has been turning for guidance in implementing the provisions of the little-understood National Defense Act of 1958 in regard to evaluating the quality of language instruction on all levels of education.

In recent years MacAllister, an effective toiler in Republican vineyards, particularly in the Borough's First and Eighth Districts, has been concentrating more and more on the methodology of language teaching. A leading authority on the works of the poet Dante, he has struggled for closer understanding and cooperation between secondary schools and colleges—seeking to strengthen the study of literary history by encouraging close and meaningful contacts with the actual texts.

To him the "living language," with stress on a nation's cultural achievements and its aspirations for the future, is infinitely more significant than a comma-by-comma study of literary classics.

A native of flood-wracked Hazelton, Pa., MacAllister took his bachelor and advanced degrees at Yale with distinction. Prior to joining the Princeton Faculty as an assistant professor in 1940, he served as a Yale instructor, lectured at Albertus Magnus College (New Haven) and also taught at Brown University. During World War II he was in charge of "the linguistic aspects of the Italian Area Program," sponsored by the U. S. Army, and played a key role in helping train team interpreter-personnel for civil responsibilities in the Mediterranean Theater of Operations.

Over the years MacAllister has been generously active in any number of educational service organizations, ranging from consultative positions in local school systems in New Jersey to memberships on advisory committees for the Fulbright Program for overseas fellowships. A frequent speaker before modern-language groups, and a participant in both radio and television programs, he holds—in addition to other continuing responsibilities—a position as editorial consultant in Italian to The Papers of Thomas Jefferson, the 50-plus volume project being edited here on the University Campus and published by the Princeton University Press.

For helping establish a clearing-house for information and assistance in language-teaching problems throughout these United States; for injecting new vitality in a program that has lagged far behind the needs of the moment; for outstanding accomplishment in his chosen field; he is TOWN TOPICS' nominee for

WAY OF LIFE THREATENED

J-Walkers Head for Trouble.
Into a community whose year-round residents and thousands of carefree students alike have long preferred to walk where they please came a somber note of progress this week: The automobile age has arrived.

Borough Police Chief Raymond
A. Mondone announced that, in deference to public safety, the joys of J-walking must come to an end. In short: "Pedestrians observed walking in traffic in violation of the law, or in any dangerous manner" will be warned — and possibly ticketed. The program is part of a state-wide pedestrian safety campaign launched by Governor Meyner and endorsed by state and county traffic safety councils and the New Jersey Association of Chiefs of Police.

Chief Mondone said he was instructing all his officers to issue
"polite but firm" warnings to erring pedestrians. "We may issue a couple of tickets in cases of flagrant violations," he said. All Borough policemen have received copies of a communication from Stanley E. Rutkowski, Mercer County prosecutor, outlining the pedestrian laws and urging strict enforcement.

Mr. Rutkowski reports that
"thus far in 1959, of 16 fatal traffic accidents occurring on Mercer County streets, roads and highways, six victims were pedestrians. Of this number, two

Mostly Moisture

The rain is coming all around,
It drizzles and it pours;
It leaks through my window panes
And squeaks up my doors.
— SONGY SIX

All-time rainfall records for the summer months appeared safe, but the past few days made threatening gestures in that direction. From Friday through Wednesday, better than two inches more than has sometimes experienced in three weeks.

Clearer skies ahead, however, the Man promised. Better weather all around, in fact; temperature not much over 50 and none of that 100% humidity that had oppressed humans and opossums alike.

pedestrians were under the age of 11, the others ranging from 35 to 87."

So far this year no traffic deaths have occurred in Princeton, the chief said, "but we can never tell when our record will stop being clear." He stressed the need for all persons to take reasonable precautions when walking and to be alert to traffic conditions.

New Era Dawns. The safety campaign could have caught its initial sledding as the polite but firm police run up against the equally firm proclivity of Princetonians to cross the street whenever and wherever the impulse strikes.
While there's little doubt of the dangerousness of the practice, J-walking is so common that, until the State Highway Department stepped in, there were years when illegal but convenient crosswalks between intersections on Nassau Street.

Preoccupied undergraduates slipping blithely into Washington Road traffic and causing giant trucks to defy the laws of momentum are matched by package-laden housewives who cross Nassau Street with only a deautory glance in each direction. The obstacles to a successful safe-walking campaign are as deeply rooted as they are varied. Police will no doubt find the slow summer season has come to a quick end in their efforts to lend a hand to the patron saints whose vehicle over Princeton's countless "walk-where-you-please" clan must be eternally trying.

MRS. EVERETT IS 100

Honored at Party Wednesday.
Mrs. Mary S. Everett, born near Neshaminy when James Buchanan was President and Earl Sumner was just another military installation, celebrated her 100th birthday at a small family party this Wednesday. One of the few Princetonians ever to achieve this distinction, Mrs. Everett has lived since the mid-1840's with her daughter, Mrs. George N. Tower, 21 Russell Road.

According to the family, Mrs.
Everett continues to be alert and in good health. She has vivid memories ranging back to the assassination of President Lincoln.

Her family, in addition to Mrs.
Tower, includes four grandchildren and four great-grandchildren. One of the grandchildren is G. Nelson Tower Jr., 63, West-sheaf Lane, president of the Tower Construction Co.

Don't Cut Down On Vitamins In Summer!

Even though the sunshine and many fresh vegetables of the summer months are health-giving assets in your life, daily use of vitamins should not be discontinued.
Hot weather tends to decrease your daily intake of food, which should then be supplemented with vitamins. Excessive perspiration also indicates a need for B vitamins as a water soluble aid.

CUSTOM-MADE WITH CATERPILLARS
Templeton's chenille rugs are custom-made from finest Scotch wools by a unique process. Each line of pile is woven individually. This long line of piling (called a "caterpillar") is woven, backed and sheared separately. Then, the rug is sewn to size, not cut. This means you can select your carpeting by personal preference, not merely from stocks on hand.
Templeton's chenilles can be made to order in any color, length or width - no matter how unusual. As Templeton's exclusive local agent, we have wool chenilles from $23.55 to $32 a yard. Order now for convenient installation before early fall.

ROUND UP
Princeton Municipal Improvement and the Nassau Inn have been named as defendants in a $22,500 suit for damages brought by a Rider College teacher and his wife. Mr. and Mrs. Frederick L. Ferris of Pennington are claiming that amount as the result of a fall she allegedly had in the Inn's grill room in April, 1957. . . . poor lighting and a slippery floor are listed as the causes. . . . Monday's three siren-wailing ambulance trips through mid-Princeton were for what those in charge call "routine sick calls" on two occasions, but the third brought a 73-year old Perrieville man who had been hit by a car near Hightstown to Princeton Hospital. . . . he was in critical condition on arrival.

A car owned by Mrs. Hilda Tremut, 2 Harrison Street, caught fire in the rear seat and was extinguished by Patrolmen John Mackston and Douglas Watson. . . . another, owned by Mrs. Clara Katrenellenbogen, a night worker at Princeton Hospital, was stolen from the Franklin Avenue parking yard Friday night and is still missing.

Urban Renewal, a project making news this summer in many a city as the allocation of funds and other aspects of municipal improvement are debated, has a place on the agenda of next Tuesday night's Borough Council meeting. . . . discussion may include possible sites for relocation of families in the affected area. . . . the mayor and council will also consider "proposed changes in Borough communications," with particular regard to a new frequency for the short-wave police radio and new radio equipment.

COYLE TO AID COHEN

Named Assistant to President, Dan D. Coyle this week was named Assistant to the President of Princeton University, President Robert F. Cohen announced. He succeeds Frank E. Taplin, who has resigned following two years in the position to permit him to devote greater time to "the increasing pressures of business and personal interests."

Mr. Coyle joined the University's administrative staff in 1946 and for the past five years has been its Associate Director of Public Information. He also serves as editor of The Princeton Athletic News, publication of the Department of Athletics.

Participating in community activities since the end of his five-year tour of duty as a staff officer with the Army Ground Forces, Mr. Coyle is an editor and publisher of TOWN TOPICS. He has directed the March of Dimes here, aided in organization of the Princeton Unit of Recording for the Blind and handled public relations for Princeton Hospital.

A member of Borough Council for the past four years, he is in his second term as its president and, in Mayor Male's absence this week, is Acting Mayor of the municipality. He also serves as Police Commissioner and as the Council's representative on the Planning Board.

BOY, 6, FEARED DROWNED

Off Barnegat Light, David Yost, 6-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. John R. Yost, Jr., 150 Loomis Court, was still missing Wednesday 24 hours after he had been playing on the beach near Barnegat Light on the New Jersey shore.

No trace of him had been found, but his parents and the Coast Guard feared that he had drowned after going into the water. His father and two brothers, John, 9, and Stephen, 3, were on the beach at the same time when Mr. Yost said that David had disappeared. "I feel sure he went into the water without my knowledge," Mr. Yost said, a day after an exhaustive search of the area had proved fruitless.

The Yost family had been at a rented summer home near Barnegat Light since mid-July. Mr. Yost is a chemical engineer with the E. R. Squibb Co. in New Brunswick.

ANNIVERSARY MARKED

By Merwick. Princeton Hospital's long-term nursing unit, Merwick, celebrated its second anniversary Saturday with five of the original six guests still in residence. All 35 beds are occupied for the first time in the institution's history. A total of 102 guests have been admitted since the doors opened in August, 1937.

A trained recreational director is in charge of the program of activities which includes concerts, birthday celebrations, parties, picnics and other entertainment. Westminster Choir College students and faculty have given almost two concerts a month since Merwick was founded.

A daily arts and crafts program is provided; projects comprise painting, weaving, basket-making, games, scrap book making and ceramics. Weekly services are held in the chapel where Bishop Matthews once worshipped. Members of the Princeton Pastors' Association conduct the services on a rotating basis.

Among the past and present guests at Merwick are two former mayors (Princeton and Hopewell), a writer and translator of Thomas Mann, a retired chemist, a former portrait painter, a former headmistress of a girls' school, and several retired bankers.

DRIVER FINED $50

In Three Charges, Jose L. Arcocho, 20, 229 1/2 John Street, a dishwasher, was fined $50 in a special session of Township Court on Monday on charges of careless driving, failure to have driver's license and failure to have registration in possession.

Arcocho was charged after his 1950 sedan struck two cyclists and hit a Public Service pole in an accident on the Princeton-Kingston Road Sunday. He told police he lost control of the vehicle after negotiating a curve. Arcocho was not injured in the mishap.

COMMITTEE OFFERS HELP

In the Planned Parenthood of the Board Breeze, chairman of the group at the Planned Parenthood committee, announced that the committee is offering help and guidance to an average of ten persons each week at its Thursday clinic sessions.

The clinics were kept open at the committee's office at 140 Nassau Street as a summer experiment, according to Mrs. Breeze, and the response has justified their continuance. The committee also offers a 24-hour telephone service at WA 4-3062 and keeps its office open on Tuesdays from 10 a.m. to noon when the nurse-director, Mrs. Doris Sutcliffe answers questions on child-spacing and infertility problems and gives marriage counselling referrals.

The committee plans to launch a fund-raising campaign next month to maintain these services. Mrs. Breeze and Mrs. John Davies are co-chairmen of the campaign. Members of the committee which will conduct the campaign include Mrs. Edward D'Arms, Mrs. Richard Lindbary, Mrs. Alfred Hoyt, Mrs. Robert Leasing, Mrs. Dudley Woodrider, Mrs. Oscar Sussman, Mrs. Frank Nuteshkin, Mrs. Bevin Smith and Mrs. Norman Williams Jr.

Fox of the same address by throwing a pail of water on her while Mrs. Fox was sweeping the sidewalk. A 30-day jail sentence was imposed and suspended by the magistrate. Mrs. Leary was ordered to pay $30 in fine and court costs.

charm of a wood nymph's love of a child offers something more to her - more than Shaw's guise of Father Hart's religion.

On a few occasions it is encouraging to tell someone they have overstepped their bounds, particularly when one has only seen a device rehearsal. But if the Little Theatre overstepped its bounds on opening night, let us hope that they did it with enthusiasm. And for all that, the only way bounds are determined is by overstepping them.

MORE PROGRAMS PLANNED
 By Little Theatre, Miss Dana Terry, director of the Little Theatre for ten-agers, reported that it is planning to present more programs to a successful second week. Audiences contributed more than $70 to the group which operates without an admission charge, she said.

Miss Terry said that the Little Theatre is attempting a reading group for its next production. She asked anyone interested in joining to call her at WAIN 1-9465.

THE PLAYHOUSE
 The Five Pennies (August 5-8), which relates the story of careerist Loring "Red" (Nichols), musician and personal life, is a notably uneven film, with virtually all its high points in the first half. Danny Kaye, Barbara Bel Geddes, Louis Armstrong and Jerry Colonna are the stars, and they are assisted by a horde of excellent popular and jazz musicians among them Jimmy Manne and Ray Anthony.

Nichols (Kaye) comes to New York in the early 1920's, a brash, ambitious young man whose faith in his own musicianship is flawless. In quick succession, he gets a job with the band of Wil Paradise (Joh. Cronley), becomes friendly with Guardian, who becomes his manager, marries the band's vocalist (Miss Bel Geddes) and matches wittily with Arnold strong in a Harlem drive. Nichols eventually rises to stardom on his own, and this gives the producers a chance to throw in several more musical numbers, nearly all of which are performed admirably by Kaye and the musicians. So far so good.

Then, unfortunately, the Dramm begins. Kaye's rugged schedule of one-nighters is causing tension in his family, which has, in the interim, been augmented by the birth of a daughter, played at various stages of maturity by Susan Gordon and someone called Tuesday Weld. Kaye's hidden guilt feelings about his neglecting the girl are exploded into the open when she contracts polio. He gives up music completely until his daughter, several years later, helps him to understand that he is not responsible for her condition, which, as any soap-opera fan knew already, is about to improve substantially. This is all pretty atrocious, but Kaye is so clearly and genuinely warm-hearted that all but the most maudlin moments are tolerable. The excellent original songs were contributed by Kaye's talented wife, Sylvia Fine. The film is in VistaVision and color.

A Hole in the Head (August 9-15) is a thoroughly delightful comedy-with-musical starring Frank Sinatra, Edward G. Robinson, Eleanor Parker, Carolyn Jones, Thelma Ritter and Keenan Wynn, and including Eddie Hodges, the 10-year-old charmer of "The Music Man." A good deal of the credit for its success lies with Frank Capra, who produced and directed, and Arnold Schulman, who co-ordinated the fast-paced, funny script.

Sinatra is magical in the role of a hard-up Miami hotel owner whose attempts to raise capital for his place are confused by wholesome yet multi-faced prostitutes with Miss Jones and Miss Parker, and by his determination to hold onto his mother-in-law (Hodges), despite the well-known objections of friends and relatives. While Sinatra's qualifications as a father are not apparent to the casual observer, they are fervently esteemed by Hodges, who calls him "Champ" and insists being shipped off to stay with Uncle Mario (Robinson) in New York.

There are two good songs by Sammy Cahn and Jimmy Van Heusen: "All My Tomorrows" and "High Hopes," the latter, according to the record label, performed by "Frank Sinatra and a Bunch of Kids." Everyone involved in this picture is competent and they're all obviously having a good time. Spirits are so momentarily high, in fact, that the one or two descents into sentimentality do not substantially mar the brightness of the picture. "A Hole in the Head" is in CinemaScope and color. Recommended.

THE GARDEN
 No Down Payment (August 6-8) is a vivid little item about thwarted ambitions, alcoholism, rape and violent death in a California suburb populated by Jeffery Hunter, Patricia Owens, George Woodward, Sherie North, Tony Randall and Pat Hingle. In other words, it's about the thing for a happy summer evening at the movies.

The plot appears to have been lifted bodily from an especially frenzied issue of the Daily News: Mitchell wants to be chief of police. He is turned down, but he never went to college like the other kids. He turns to drink. Miss Woodward wants to put up for adoption her illegitimate child. She wants a child now that she can keep. She becomes a successful actress. Randall wants to make a lot of money. He fails as a used car salesman. He turns to drink. Mitchell, drunk, and Miss Woodward have a particularly nasty fight. He leaves the house and drops in next door, where he rapes Miss Owens. The underlying conflicts, in a word, have been established.

The film is raised into the "B" classification by the performances of the principals, all of whom are talented and experienced actors. They deserve better material. A 1957 release, "No Down Payment" is in CinemaScope.

The Seven Little Foys (August 10-12), a 1955 release, features Bob Hope as vaudeville entertainer Eddie Foy. The story details Foy's ambition to raise to the top of the entertainment business his marriage to an Italian singer (Milly Vitale), whom he meets when he fouls up her act as a producer's audition, and the seemingly unending round of pregnancies and births that characterized the Foy household.

Things come to a head when the children are old enough to join the act. Miss Vitale's older sister (Amenia Clarke) goes into court to prevent Hope from capitalizing on the talents of his offspring. The judge is persuaded to throw out the complaint when the youngsters appear in court and joyfully declare their love for Old Dad and their burning desire to join him behind the keys.

The film is another case of a talented comedian who believes he can be warm without being unfunny. In Hope's case, at least, this is impossible. The picture is neatly divided into two groups of scenes: the warm ones, which are depressingly slow, and the funny ones. Nonetheless, it's all very bright and there are enough songs on the order of "Mary Is a Grand Old Name" to state all but the most nostalgic viewers. The film is in VistaVision and color.

IT'S NEW To Us

THOSE DARK COTTONS
To Sew Yourself. Rich, dark cottons by the boltful come daily to the Fabric Shop on Chambers Street, so that you may find some new ones that have arrived since our visit.

What we saw were Luxford cloth paisleys—Luxford being a kind of printed Oxford cloth—in shades of moss green, dull gold, wine and so on. Paisley effect can be varied in more ways than you would guess. Some of the prints have those big commas arranged at random over the dark ground. Others have little paisley figures so close together that they make an all-over pattern.

Still another has figures so small they are almost pin-heads, lined up in good and proper rows, gold against a moss green ground. Wonderful for fall dresses. These prints are $1 a yard, 36-inches wide.

In the same vein, there is a collection by Robust, including a Roman print in electric blue, violet and green, with legions coins and ruins, tastefully arranged. This one is $1.69.

A medallion print, Victorian, but not at all sentimental comes in moss green and dull rose, woven into a polished cotton.

Other dark cottons have softly checked patterns with swirls inside each blurred check. The pattern gives the effect of finger painting done with all the colors mixed to a kind of black-red-brown. This one also comes in the blue-green combination that is high style this fall.

Peter Pan cottons send along a "Primitive print" that looks much more Persian than primitive. It has narrow stripes of varying width in dark colors, each stripe filled with a different floral pattern.

Suit, Anyone? The suit you buy this fall from Bellows will have a short, medium or long jacket, depending on you and the suit style. Important ancient tartans make classic suits, some of them with fan pleated skirts and long jackets, others very slim.

There is one, in ancient Black Stuart, outlined entirely with black piping; around the small collar, down the front of the fitted jacket and across a pocket. There are no cuffs and the skirt hangs straight.

Ancient Cockburn has been used for one of those fan skirts. The jacket is longer than ones we've seen recently.

A charcoal brown houndstooth, revered collar and flap pockets, goes with a topcoat in similar but much bigger check. It has patch pockets big enough to put the whole suit in.

A costume suit in blue-green tweed sets a short straight jacket, double-breasted, over a straight skirt. The jacket has a wide round collar and fringed tie, brazelet sleeves.

This is your year for cashmere and mink? Bellows can provide you with both, to mix and match. Buy a cashmere coat, in a color that looks like heavy cream.

On top, you may have a ranch mink shawl collar which comes off so that you can wear it as a neckpiece with your suit. It can be sewn permanently to the coat, if you prefer.

Other colors, besides cream, are black and cherry red and there is a myrtle blue coat with cerisean mink collar. For $139.95.

Under this cashmere coat you might wear a Parisian knit ensemble, three piece, done in charcoal brown jersey its collarless jacket lined with floral print. The same print appears in the short-sleeved jersey blouse, piped with satin.

Bellows also produces a sweater for college girls that looks just like the ones fishermen wear. So they say. Anyway, it is cream colored slipover, all wool, with boat neck (rather have to be, on a fisherman's sweater), and a knit-in pattern of zig-zags and diamonds. No telling what you'll catch in it.

Tune Me In. Take away to the beach a Japanese transistor radio.

It All Matches

Everything matches this fall At Bellows, the new sweaters and skirts are practically all dyed to match so that only the myopic can tell where your blouse leaves off and your skirt begins.

There's a light-weight flannel straight belted skirt, for example, yarn dyed in Jamaica brown, dark charcoal brown, a lovely cornflower blue, pepper green or American beauty red. With this skirt you wear slipover or cardigan in exactly the same shade, exactly the same for blend.

There's also a brightly checked skirt in blue and green, and you can wear either a blue or green sweater with it, precise match. To make the picture even more monochromatic, there's a soft, subtle plaid skirt with exactly that blue and green, if you can believe it, so your sweaters can do double duty.

from the Music Center on Painter Square. It has six transistors, battery, ear-phones and leather case for $12.95.

Your summer listening can be words, music or that well-known combination of both: opera. The Center suggests that you try one of RCA's three complete operas which the company is graciously selling for $11.95, meaning that you get four LP's for the price of three. What you hear is "The Marriage of Figaro," "The Barber of Seville" and "La Forza del Destino," all recorded by Metropolitan Opera casts.

On the wordy side, you'll find Stanley Holloway being very Lancashire—remember Young Albert and "er 'ead tucked underneath 'er arm?"—and a couple of English comedies being just that in "At the Drop of a Hat," and Mort Sahl being mordant on 2 LP's, and even Henry Morgan. Turn up the volume.

MUSIC In Princeton

THE KRAUTERS PLAY
Telemann and Ravel. Two former wonder children, Phyllis and Karl Krauter, appeared at a concert Monday night in McCosh Hall. Also on the program was the pianist, Leonard Eisner. The concert was sponsored by the University Players as part of the 1959 summer festival.

Members of a family who for more than 200 years and 11 consecutive generations have been musicians, the sister and brother made their debut, respectively, at 7 and 4 years of age. They have since appeared in 40 states and in countries abroad and won many prizes.

Probably Monday night's concert did not give a fair impression of the Krauters. Miss Krauter appeared to have trouble with her cello in the humid weather; whatever the reason, her sound came out rather raspy and scratchy and lacking in fullness during most of the program. Mr. Krauter fared better and often played with beautiful purity and richness of tone. The ensemble play was always impeccable. Mr. Eisner performed affably and pleasantly at the piano.

SONGS WITH GUITAR. Baladeer Karen Duke will present an evening of folk songs Monday in McCosh 10.

The program contained a concerto for violin and cello in E major by Telemann, a Ravel sonata for violin and cello, and a trio in D minor by Arensky. The three selections gave the musicians opportunity for some enjoyable playing, but the readings were not unified in concept or execution. One minor disturbing mannerism was the amount of music-stand adjusting and general commotion between the parts of each concerto which contributed to disrupting the mood of the work.

The encores consisted of two pieces arranged by Mr. Krauter.

ter. The first was the "sonata from Mozart's 'Don Giovanni' in which the cello acted as the voice and the violin as the lute. The second was a spiritual, "De Blin' Men Sat by de Road and Cried."

FOLKSINGER TO APPEAR. Baladeer Karen Duke will present an evening of "Songs With Guitar" in the sixth University Players summer concert in McCosh 10 at 8:30 on Monday. Miss Duke, whose professional experiences range from folk singing to opera, will sing Elizabethan songs by Carleton and Blow, French chansons, American ballads and other folk songs.

Miss Duke is a professional model and an actress. She has appeared in summer stock and in the road companies of "Campan" and "Silk Stockings." She has had her own radio program in Northampton, Mass., and toured the Far East for the USO.

OUTDOOR CONCERT LISTED. For Friday Night. The Princeton Community Band will present a concert at 7:30 on Friday on the lawn in front of Nassau Hall. In case of rain, the program will be postponed to Monday night.

The band is conducted by Bruce McKinney. The program will include Rossini's "La Gazza Ladra," Moussorgsky's "Pictures at an Exhibition," Bach's "Jesu, Joy of Man's Desire," and selections from Richard Rodgers' "Carousel" and Sousa's "King Cotton March." The band's solo clarinetist, Alan Ginsberg, will conduct the Bach work.

SALARY INCREASE OPPOSED
By Mayor Gurisic, Miss Grace A. Gurisic, mayor of Rocky Hill, and Democratic candidate for Somerset County freeholder, has announced her opposition to any increase in salary for county freeholders. The Democratic executive committee has backed her stand.

The proposed raise would bring the part-time freeholders' salaries from $600 to $900 a year. Mayor Gurisic pointed out that the office holders are furnished with an expense account and an automobile. In addition to their salaries.

ARCHERY CONTEST HELD
Under Police Sponsorship, Joe Squitieri and Bob Anderson won a field archery shoot sponsored by the Police Youth Program at the Buckland Valley Archers Course at Washington Crossing. Squitieri won in the 13-15 age group, and Anderson the 10-12. Runners-up were Tom Faanello and Doug Watson in the younger group and George Koltchmid and James Moran in the 13-15 bracket.

TWO HITS, ONE MISS

Players Present One-Acters. The University Players' current production of three one-act plays is a curiously mixed offering which improves dramatically in both material and performance as the evening progresses. Some, but not all, of the early problems may be attributed to the fact that Robert Costa, who had major roles in the first two plays, became ill on Monday and had to be replaced.

The curtain-raiser, "The Land of Nod" by Hilary Lipitz, seems by comparison with its successors to have been inadequately rehearsed. There is a great deal of hesitancy and outright stumbling over lines which will no doubt be cleaned up later in the week but which nonetheless dulled the impact of the first-night production.

This is the premiere performance of the play, which depicts a boy's awakening to the facts of life in the sordid backyard of a Southern carnival. Mr. Lipitz, who graduated from Princeton in 1955 and now toils for Batten, Barton, Durstine and Osborn, has chosen a somewhat self-consciously obscure slice-of-life farm for his work, making it difficult to understand what is going on until the play is half over.

Since the locale is immaterial to the play's substance, it is unfortunate that director Dale Bell has permitted his performers to attempt Southern accents. Mr. Bell himself, who filled in for Mr. Costa, is the worst offender in this regard: his verbal blending of New England and the Old South hurda farth like the clipped mutterings of a Method actor with a speech impediment. Jinx Prather, as the manhandled stripper, and Daniel Durning, as the flamboyant carnival man, also suffer from their forays into dialect, while young Michael Dugan and James Harder, who speak relatively plain English, are better.

Anti-Play's the Thing. After this rather somber beginning, the Players turn to wacky and highly effective satire in Eugene Ionesco's "The Bald Soprano," described by its author as "an anti-play." Trading with deadpan joy on dramatic clichés ranging from coincidence in last-minute murralling, the play is a continuing non-sequitur sparked by well-timed and understanding performances from all six participants.

Director Philip Minor, who took Mr. Costa's part in this play, deserves credit on both fronts, but it is the opening dialogue between Betzie Parker and John Wayne Evans, particularly their discussion of a family made up exclusively of persons named Binky Watson, that establishes the play's rewarding atmosphere. Mary Louise Wilson, a very talented young lady indeed, is both eye-rilling and tremendously amusing as the scantily-clad housemaid with a yen for poetry and the local fire chief (Mr. Harder). Miss Prather is pitifully funny as Mr. Minor's wife.

But Not Least. This high level is sustained and perhaps extended by the program's final one-acter, "A Marriage Proposal," a witty farce by Anton Chekhov concerning a Russian lass who can't help starting arguments with the apparently sane but hopelessly propulsive to her, Mr. Durning gives what is probably the evening's best single performance in the role of the suitor, a virtuoso display of comic ability, and Miss Wilson is superb as the argumentative maiden.

Mr. Harder portrays her father with the proper combination of robust good spirits and thunderous anger. The direction, by David Sawyer, brings out the best in this expansive and entertaining comedy.

The success of the program is heightened by the technical production, which is excellent for all three plays. Special mention should go to Paul Glickler, whose effective settings capture the evening's varying moods to perfection. The three plays will be presented at 8:30 each night through Saturday at Murray Theatre.

MERCER-PRINCETON MOVES
Firm Located at 21 Chambers. The Mercer-Princeton Realty Company moved this week from its 90 Nassau Street address to 21 Chambers Street, the former location of Princeton Savings and Loan Association. At its new address, the company will offer a complete real estate and insurance service under the direction of John T. Henderson and William F. Tallmadge, respectively. Founded as Princessville Realty Company in 1937, the firm maintained an office at 106 Alexander Street until March of this year when it moved to 90 Nassau and changed its name to Mercer-Princeton.

In charge of the company's new insurance arm, Mr. Tallmadge has been head of the New York group office of Security Mutual Life Insurance Company, and in the insurance field for the past 15 years. A native of Binghamton, N. Y., and a former Bronxville resident, he and his wife moved here last week.

Mr. Henderson has been associated with the company since its beginning, and became broker in May 1954. He was responsible for the sale of the Kling Farm in Lawrence Township to the Princessville Research Park group last year. Last week, he negotiated the sale through Previews Inc., the national real estate house, of "Harmony Hollow," an 80-acre farm in Harbourton, to Richard C. Jacobs, a New York attorney.

Prior to coming to Princeton in 1954, Mr. Henderson was in Caracas, Venezuela, with the U. S. Life Insurance Company, having served as vice-president of Ter, Bush & Powell in New York as an associate group field specialist. He was manager of the Radio City office of Travelers Insurance Company, and was chairman of the Accident and Health Advisory Committee of the New York State Insurance Department for five years. He was a salesman with Skillman and Skillman for a year before joining Princessville.

PRINCETON SAVINGS MOVES
Open House This Saturday. Princeton Savings and Loan Association moved this week to its new location at 19 Chambers Street, next door to the old office at 21 Chambers Street. Mercer County's first insured savings and loan association, Princeton Savings is now in its 42nd year of operation.

"The move to larger quarters is, of course, dictated by the rapid growth of our association," said president B. Franklin Bunn. "We are now serving increasing numbers of savers and homeowners. We hope they will enjoy the facilities we have planned with their comfort and convenience in mind."

The association will celebrate the occasion with an "open house" Saturday from 10 to 4. The first 250 visitors to present a U. S. coin of any denomination dated 1917 can exchange it for a silver dollar. Souvenirs will be distributed to all who attend the opening day celebration.

VOLLRAH NAMED DIRECTOR
Of Nassau Fund. Donald C. Vollrahl, Springdale Road, has been elected a director of the Nassau Fund. He will succeed Dr. James H. Wakelin, whose resignation became necessary when he assumed his new duties as Assistant Secretary of the Navy in charge of Research.

Mr. Vollrahl, a graduate of Penn Charter School and Princeton University has had broad experience in the financial community, including infestment advisory duties which have prepared him to serve on the board of Princeton's only "open-end" mutual investment fund.

He is currently engaged in security analysis and advisory work with the investment firm of Wood, Struthers & Co. of New York, with whom he has been associated for the past 14 years. Mr. Vollrahl has previously been in trust work when he was with the Trust Department of the Fidelity-Philadelphia Trust Company and the Philadelphia National Bank where he was also engaged in security analysis and advisory work.

TWO MEN NAMED OFFICERS

Of Baldwin-Ehret-Hill, Inc. Harold L. Humes, Rosedale Road, and William A. Schreyer, 15 Haslet Avenue, have been appointed vice-president for research and development and secretary-treasurer, respectively, of Baldwin-Ehret-Hill, Inc., of Trenton.

The appointments are the result of a merger between Baldwin-Hill Company, Trenton, and Ehret Magnesia Manufacturing Company, Valley Forge, Pa. Mr. Humes and Mr. Schreyer held the same positions with the Baldwin-Hill firm.

ASCOP RECEIVES CONTRACT

For Data Control Systems. Applied Science Corporation of Princeton has received a contract award of $784,000 for supplying digital data transmission systems for the Eglin Gulf Test Range, Eglin Air Force Base, Fla. The contract brings to nearly $2,000,000 the volume of orders that ASCOP has received for supplying telemetry and data handling equipment for the Eglin Range.

The 450-mile Eglin Gulf Test Range is a huge electronic "scoreboard" that will allow up to three missiles to be flown against three remotely-controlled drones. All vehicles in flight will have flight performance data monitored simultaneously.

ASCOP data-transmission systems will digitize flight performance data and transmit it to several sites where it is presented on instrument panels. The corporation is also supplying telemetry equipment to all range sites for receiving, reducing and recording telemetered flight performance data.

SPORTS In Princeton

This is the last in a series of four articles on Princeton football prospects for 1959.

FOOTBALL OUTLOOK — IV

Opposition Will Be Tough. If Princeton's 1959 football team remains injury-free, it will almost certainly be measurably better than it was a year ago. Despite this apparently rosy outlook, the Tigers may have their hands full just duplicating last year's second-place Ivy finish and overall 6-3 mark.

The seeming paradox stems from the fact that all five of the players with which Princeton had its greatest difficulty last fall figure to be at least as good as they were a year ago. Two or three of them will be better. Conversely, the four that were injured last fall are unlikely to improve enough to play the Tigers on even terms this season.

In 1958, Rutgers won the opener, 28-0; Cornell ambushed the Orange and Black, 35-8; and Dartmouth took the game that men in the Ivy title, 21-12. There were two close-circled Princeton victories, 20-11 over Penn and 16-11 over Harvard. The other four triumphs were recorded by godsend margins over Columbia, Colgate, Brown and Yale.

This fall, Rutgers and Dartmouth again loom as the two best teams Princeton will face. The Scarlet will come into Palmer Stadium on September 26 without all-American Bill Austin but bulked by a big, veteran line and able to produce enough good backs to give the Tigers all they can handle.

Hopes are that Princeton will have a high enough rating in the Ivy League by the last game of the season so that it will again be in a position to challenge Dartmouth for the title. The Green figures to defend its championship down to the wire, despite the need to rebuild virtually its entire line. Veterans Bill Gandy at quarterback and Jack Crauthamel, All-Ivy left halfback, will give the Indians the basis of an attack that every opponent will have trouble stopping.

If Princeton and Dartmouth are considered good enough to be almost certain first-division teams, which two others will be there with them? The (Pennsylvania, Harvard and Cornell) are good bets, with the out-humbled Quakers possibly the strongest. Unusual backfield speed is provided by halfbacks Dave Coffin and Fred Doelling, while Penn will field a big line backed by considerable experience. The Red and Blue has the rugged assignment of facing Dartmouth's Princeton on successive early October Saturdays and if it ever managed to get by both of them, would be a shoo-in for the title.

Cornell, which had a much better season than expected last year, missed lying Dartmouth for the title only because it was an upset victim of a weak Brown season. Brown, however, has enough good material back to remain a major threat. Odds are the Ithacans will beat out Harvard for first division, but the Crimson has intact the backfield which quarterback Charlie Ravenel sparks, and will be among the front runners if any of the favored four slip.

Yale, Brown and Columbia all hope to move upward, with the Elis accorded the best chance after their dismal 0-7 Ivy performance last fall. The Blue will get better than average sophomore material, with Bill Leckonby, who raised his with Princeton's freshmen last fall, the big hope to fill the vital quarterback slot.

If Yale moves upward as expected, Brown is the pick over Columbia to escape the cellar. The Bruins will have a new coach, John McLaughry, who left Amherst to take the job at Providence. He has only four regulars back from the 1958 outfit which was 4-3 in the Ivy League, but the material is better than that at Columbia.

The Lions might surprise some one, as they did in topping Yale last year, but their two consecutive 1-8 seasons and generally thin squad leave little cause for optimism. Princeton's other 1959 opponent, Colgate, is probably a year away from causing real trouble, but the New Yorkers last fall had one of the best freshman teams in the east, Alva Kelley, whom McLaughry replaced at BACKFIELD BET: Bill McMillan, a starting wingback on the unbeaten Princeton freshman team three years ago, has returned to college after completing military service.

Brown, created the vacancy by moving to the Colgate campus.

Facing two of the toughest teams on its 1959 schedule in the first three weeks of the season, Princeton will have a major assignment in getting off on the right foot. Rutgers will again be a rugged opening opponent, hungry for one of the rare victories the Scarlet manages to score in Palmer Stadium.

Penn, which would also rather beat Princeton than any other opponent it faces, has high hopes of gaining the victory it narrowly missed a year ago, when the Tigers twice came from behind to win, despite the loss of Dan Sachs and Jackie Sullivan en route. These two early games will do much to point the way to Princeton's degree of success in 1959, with defeat by Penn probably meaning that the Tigers will not quite have what it takes to WIN, PLACE or SHOW?

In one of the best three-way races the National League has staged in years, the San Francisco Giants, Los Angeles Dodgers and Milwaukee Braves are heading into the stretch for the 1959 pennant. Who'll finish first?
Have the Braves the balance to become the league's first three-time champion in more than 30 years? Can the Dodgers, a second division team a year ago, stage a comeback good enough to carry them all the way to first place? Will the Giants be the team to give California its first World Series?
Because ball players themselves are such firm followers of the major league races, TOWN TOPICS' inquiring reporter asked members of the Men's Softball League to name their choices in the sizzling race, which has seen all three top clubs in the lead at one time or another. Each of the three teams has its backers—see answers at left.

Frank Pinelli, 143 Mountain Avenue, Sportsman: I'll pick Milwaukee. I think they've got the best all-around hitting and pitching team in the National League. Right now they're in a slump but they'll come back by the end of the season.

Tom Freda, Little Rocky Hill, Pete and Mike's: San Francisco. They have a lot of power and pitching strength, more power than the Dodgers. Milwaukee doesn't have any pitching this year.

Pete Sannino, proprietor, Ivy Inn, 264 Nassau Street; sponsor and manager, Sannino's: I think the Giants will win it, on one condition — if Willie Mays gets back in shape. I don't think they can win without him.

Bob King, 86 Birch Avenue, Teague's and Burton's: Los Angeles. They're strong this year; they're going to be better this year than they were a couple of years ago. I think they'll hold on to first place.

Jack Petrone, 146 Valley Road, Sannino's: I think Milwaukee because they brew more beer there than in any other major league team. It keeps them in shape.

FIELDER'S CHOICE: Players and managers in the Princeton Community Softball League this week gave Town Topics their predictions on the outcome of the tight three-way race between Milwaukee, San Francisco and Los Angeles for the National League pennant. Tom Prozacino (left) of Pete and Mike's thinks Los Angeles will take it away, while the Sportsman's Frank Pinelli picks Milwaukee. For other reactions, see this page. (Staff Photo)

Question of the Week
Question: Who do you think will come out on top in the close race between the Dodgers, the Giants and the Braves for the National League pennant?
Asked: Of players and managers in the Princeton Community Softball League.
George Boccanfuso, 156 Linden Lane, Sannino's: Milwaukee. I think they needed a second baseman and they've got one now in Bobby Avila.
Warren Huff, 25 Race Street, Teague's and Burton's: San Francisco all the way. Their pitching is holding up and the team will start hitting soon. The way it looks now I don't think Los Angeles will stay in first place too long.
Tom Prozacino, 19 Erdman Avenue, Pete and Mike's: L.A. Their pitching and hitting are starting to get together and when Gil Hodges gets back they'll have the extra punch of a long ball hitter.
Mervin Trotman, 198 Birch Avenue, Teague's and Burton's: I'll say San Francisco. They seem like a logical choice. They have better balance than any of the other contenders right now and their pitching staff is holding up better.
Gerard Raccipoli, 61 North Tullane Street, manager, Sportsman: I'm picking Milwaukee. They're going to repeat. They have great hitters. They're lagging, now but they'll come through at the end.
Mike Boccanfuso, 62 Leigh Avenue, Sannino's: Milwaukee. They have a balanced team with good hitting and pitching.
Duke James, New Brunswick, Teague's and Burton's: The Giants, I guess, because they have Willie Mays. Don't worry; he's on his way. He'll start hitting soon.

Obituaries

William J. Clarke, 90, 74 Nassau Street, died July 29 in Princeton Hospital of complications arising from a broken hip. He coached baseball at Princeton University during 21 seasons over a 15-year span, and was the last survivor of the Baltimore Orioles baseball team of the 1900's.

Mrs. Clarke coached Princeton teams in three separate periods, from 1907-1909, 1920-27 and 1935-41. When he retired at the age of 75, his teams had compiled a cumulative record of 199 victories, 309 defeats and 11 ties, for a .633 percentage. Only six of the 31 teams failed to show a winning record.

Born in New York City October 18 1868, Mr. Clarke moved to Indian territory in New Mexico early in his childhood. Following his graduation from the Brothers College in Santa Fe, N.M., where he studied civil engineering, he entered baseball in 1889, playing in the minor leagues for four years.

He joined the Baltimore Orioles in 1902, when they finished eighth in a 12-team league, and shared the catching duties with Walter Robinson while the team won pennants in the National League the next three seasons. Seven of his teammates are now in the baseball Hall of Fame in Cooperstown, N.Y., including Robinson, Dan Brouthers, Hugh Jennings, John McGraw, Willie Koster, Jimmie Foxx, McGinnis, and manager Ned Hanlon.

As a Princeton coach, he is credited with developing Morris Berg, now a lawyer and linguist, who starred with the Boston Red Sox and Washington Senators, and the late Charles W. Caldwell, whose pitching trial with the New York Yankees was curtailed by a sore arm, before he became famous as a football coach at Princeton.

Since his retirement, Mr. Clarke had lived with his wife, the former Isabelle Thomas, at 76 Nassau Street, where they operated an antique shop until last June. On his 90th birthday last October, the Baseball Advisory Committee honored him with a dinner at Nassau Inn.

In addition to his widow, Mr. Clarke is survived by a granddaughter, Mrs. Jean Clarke Jones, of Manhattan Beach, Cal. The funeral was held in the University Chapel under the direction of the Mather Funeral Home. Interment was in Druid Ridge Cemetery, Baltimore. — Continued on Page 21 flag down Dartmouth in this year's Ivy chase. Conversely, if they get by the clash with the Quakers, the Princetonians should be in the thick of the championship battling all the way.

DOUBLES TOURNEY ENDS

As Princeton Pair Wins, Mrs. Peggy Callaway and Mrs. Jane Wilmberg of Princeton won the women's doubles crown in the community tennis tournament last week by defeating Mrs. Jody Wimborg and Mrs. Edith Fullman of Trenton, 6-1, 6-2. The women's doubles was the last of eight tournaments conducted this summer by the Playgrounds Committee and the YMCA.

The tourneys were directed by Richard Swainerton. Eleven teams sought the title won by Mrs. Callaway and Mrs. Wilmberg. In the semi-final round, this pair defeated Mrs. Dorothy Katz and Mrs. Linda Collette, 6-2, 6-3, while Mrs. Wimborg and Mrs. Fullman set back Mrs. Chris Tibbals and Mrs. Jermain Mueller, 6-3, 6-1.

POST 76 NO-HIT VICTIM

Olsen Loses Three-Hitter. Southpaw Joe Zarish handuffed Princeton Post 76 without a hit last Wednesday to ease Hamilton Post 31 to a 2-0 victory on the winners' diamond. Zarish hit Bruce Sandvik in the first inning and walked Ed King in the fifth, but these were the only Princeton batters to reach base. The Hamilton pitcher fanned four in notching his victory. Dick Olsen bettered Zarish for the first three frames, pitching perfect ball until Chuck Giambelluca walked to lead off the fourth. Giambelluca stole second and scored on an error by Sandvik for the unearned run that provided Zarish with all the margin he needed.

Post 31 added an insurance tally in the sixth when Ed McGrath singled, took second on Olsen's balk and scored when Forrest Parker singled to center. Olsen was credited with a three-bitter in a losing cause.

A scheduled game at University Field was postponed last Saturday by wet grounds. Post 76 was slated for three games this week; last-place Hightstown Tuesday, league-leading Ewing Wednesday at University Field and North Trenton again on Saturday.

ALL TEAMS TIED

In Junior League. What may be the hottest race in baseball tightened last week as all four teams in the Junior Baseball League wound up in a first-place tie with 500 percentages. The Patrolmen's Benevolent Association won its only game, while Nassau Oil and Matthews Construction Company each split two contests and all three pulled even with Bowers Constructors Company, which lost its only outing.

PBA lost a week ago edged Nassau Oil, 8-7, to even its record at 2-2 and extend the Oilers' losing streak to three games. Matthews whipped Bowers, 9-4, squaring the Bowers slate at 3-3. Then Nassau Oil broke its losing string with a 6-5 victory over Matthews, placing both teams even with a 3-3 and a 2-2 log, respectively. This week the race may open — Continued on Page 21

Sports In Princeton

up a bit as Matthews takes on Bowers Thursday and PBA meets Nassau Oil Friday. The league schedule ends August 28, but rain has forced several postponements.

DINER CLINCHES TITLE

In Girls Softball League, A two-run rally in the fifth inning snatched a 1-1 tie and carried Clarksville Dinner a 3-1 victory over Town Topics and nailed down the league championship. Clarksville boasts a four-game lead over Thorne's with just six contests to be played.

Sandy Rehrand buried a fly-bitter for Clarksville as Kay Hinton and Lois Cooper peaked the attack. Town Topics overcame a 1-0 deficit in the fourth inning to tie, but pitcher Ginny Merston weakened in the fifth frame as Clarksville came on to win.

In the other game, last place ETS outslugged Thorne's, 13-12, in a see-saw affair that rounded out the schedule for the winners. Thorne's blew leads of 3-0, 6-5 and 12-9 before failing behind for the first time when ETS rallied for four runs in the last half of the sixth inning.

PAC AT HOME THURSDAY

Will Face Montgomery. The regular season in the Tri-County Baseball League will come to an end on University Field this Thursday at 6:15 when league-leading Montgomery faces the Princeton Athletic Club. Raybouts will start as soon as rain outs and tie games have been made up.

The Princeton entry dropped two more games last week, losing a tough 1-0 decision to Montgomery on an unearned run before absorbing a 7-4 defeat at South Brunswick. Dick Berger, starting and losing hurler, hit a three-run homer over the left field fence for PAC but two big innings that gave the visitors seven runs at the outset proved too big a deficit.

ENGINE CO. 1 WINS TITLE

Murray Blanks I.A.S.C. Engine Co. No. 1 won the first-half championship of the Police Youth Baseball League Tuesday as Richie Murray tossed a one-hitter and shut out the Italian-American Sportsman's Club, 7-0, in a playoff game.

The teams finished in a tie for first when No. 1 downed the Sportsmen, 6-2, last week, also behind Murray. Engine Co. 1 played errorless ball in wrapping up the playoff victory as Murray and Larry Butterfoss chipped in two hits apiece to lead the attack. Bruce Medvin picked up the only hit for the losers with a clean single to center field in the third inning.

Engine Co. No. 3 whipped the Eagles, 7-1, last week to tie into a third-place tie in the first half standings. Albert Tofo pitched a four-hitter and filled two singles to lead the victors who won their second game in a row after losing their first two contests. Johnny Freeman had a triple and a single for No. 3.

Elegant—Yet Informal
Custom Built Homes In Princeton's Western Section

Just Minutes From Town on Princeton Pike Mercer Road

These homes are custom built in the true sense of the word with an eye to the finite details that go to make for a truly custom home, and of course, provisions were made for complete air-conditioning. All houses are on lots of over an acre completely and individually landscaped and have oversized two-car garages. These homes are priced at close to builder's cost and well below the market.

80-Foot Ranch—(Under Construction) - Situated on a lovely high lot. Enter a large, gracious reception foyer; then see the spacious living room with a fireplace and lovely bow picture window - a mahogany paneled den with large glass sliding doors to your garden. Full sized dining room and a separate breakfast room, both with picture bow windows - an extremely modern kitchen with all built in appliances - laundry room - 3 oversized bedrooms - 2 1/2 baths - and a full basement. Priced below market $43,500.

2-Story Colonial - 4 bedrooms - 2 baths and a guest powder room - delightful living room with glass sliding doors leading to an outdoor dining patio - and a dream kitchen completely equipped to make your mundane daily chores a pleasant daily interlude. Priced to sell quickly. $44,500.

34-Foot Ranch—(Under Construction) - Situated on a corner lot - 3 large bedrooms and built in bookcases - separate breakfast room - a completely equipped modern kitchen - a large basement. Nothing in the area like it at $44,500.

2-Story Southern Colonial—(Under Construction) - majestically sitting in a group of lovely old trees atop a knoll with its 2 story white columns on a 40 foot portico against a background of old brick is a picture home one must see. 4 oversized bedrooms - 2 baths and a beautifully appointed guest powder room - large living room with a fireplace - mahogany paneled library - full dining room - separate breakfast room - fully equipped kitchen with all birch cabinets and a large laundry and utility room - also a full basement. This home priced at $47,500 is probably Princeton's biggest bargain.

Open House—Saturdays and Sundays 1:30 - 5:00 P.M., or can be seen by appointment. Just 'phone New York City, Oxford 7-3646 (9 a.m. to 5 p.m.) or Princeton, Walnut 1-6592 (Eva), or contact your own broker.

People With a Sense of Style Are Buying In Princeton Manor

Children can romp in the spacious surrounding woods. Mother will delight in the convenience to shopping and schools, and Father will appreciate the solid construction of our homes as a wise capital gains hedge against inflation.

Local owners have managed, town-built homes a year in Central New Jersey. Consult our list of building sites in the Princeton area. You may use your lot in all or part of the plan, or build your new home. A lot of our extra services are unusually favorable financing and free consultation with an interior decorator.

From the center of Princeton go east on Nassau St. for 1 mile, turn left on Snowden Lane to Franklin Ave., left 1 block and right on Grover Ave. to 136 Randall Rd. and display Home.
